Northwest Aviation Conference a Success!

Here are your hard-working RAF representatives taking a photo break during the Northwest Aviation Conference Feb. 20 and 21 in Puyallup, Washington. Our "campsite" booth was very popular. We invited folks in to enjoy fresh trail mix while we shared our mission with them.

What is the Recreational Aviation Foundation?

The Recreational Aviation Foundation (RAF) is a volunteer-based organization dedicated to preserving, maintaining, promoting, and creating recreational airstrips nationwide. To further this mission the RAF develops informational resources, fosters airstrip projects, and organizes member involvement in the RAF's work preserving aviation's access to private and public recreational lands. Go to www.theraf.org for more information.
